The article "A Scientist ponders—Nothing" is getting close to a fact, but far different from his evolutionary Big Bang theory. It will be interesting to see the discovery when he puts his "nothingness" under the lab microscope. I expect he will see nothing, that being a good description of evolution, the greatest hoax created by scientist. The poor Atheists, they say God cannot be part of the equation.

There is a better explanation of our Origins- from the HOLY BIBLE.

The Lord merely spoke and the heavens were created. He breathed the word and all the stars were born. He gave the sea its boundaries and locked the ocean in vast reservoirs.

For when he spoke, the world began! It appeared at His command.

Yes, it sounds unbelievable. Everything created from 'nothing', but what a big difference from the evolutionary scientist.
